PERFECT JERSEY

Andy Stansfield

Nine by five. Miles that is. You wouldn't think for a moment that an island so small could hold so many treasures – but it does. Its beaches are superb, from the 5-mile sweep of St Ouen's Bay to coves like Portelet Bay with its own tiny island topped by one of Jersey's famous round towers. Wild flowers and formal gardens, walking festivals in both spring and autumn, perhaps the best seafood cuisine in the world, spectacular falconry displays in the medieval setting of Mont Orgueil Castle, fabulous sunsets, some of the finest archaeology in Europe at La Hogue Bie, and the only museums devoted to life under German occupation this side of France.

In over 140 superb colour photographs Andy Stansfield displays the beauties of this wonderful island, showing why so many famous personalities have chosen to make Jersey their home.

Andy Stansfield is a Lancashire-based photographer, feature writer and author who specialises in travel and outdoor leisure. His first visit to Jersey was for a commission to interview several island personalities but he also had time to explore the island and was astonished by its diversity. Since that first visit, Andy has trained his camera thousands of times on its moods, idiosyncrasies and attractions. The photographs in this book are a very personal selection of images which bring back memories of places he has visited and people he has met.
