SOUTH CORNWALL COAST FROM THE AIR

Photography by Jason Hawkes

Cornwall is practically all coastline. No part of this famed county is more than 15 miles from the sea. Yet her southern coast could hardly be more different from that of the north, as is revealed in the spectacular photographs in this book and its sister publication North Cornwall Coast from the Air.

The delight of this book is that it offers the reader a chance to see just how varied is the southern coast of Cornwall. From the soaring cliffs around the Lizard, we travel east looking down on sandy coves and hidden tidal creeks and into the heart of the many coastal towns and villages along the way.

These days, the coastline provides the means for thousands to enjoy leisure pursuits. The South West Coast Path follows the cliff edge for most of its route through Cornwall, while golden beaches are thronged in summer months providing safe bathing, in most places, while easy access gives everyone a chance to explore harbourside towns and villages.

Through these superb photographs we are taken on an aerial journey along South Cornwall's coast, starting at Land's End and heading eastward for around 80 miles or so (130km) to the Devon border.

Jason Hawkes is one of the country's best-known photographers specialising in aerial photography. From his base near London he travels worldwide to produce images for books, advertising and design. Since 1991 he has provided photographs for major international companies including Nike, HSBC, Ford, Rolex, Toyota and BP. The images in this book and the sister publications in the series were specially commissioned by Halsgrove.
