SUFFOLK COAST FROM THE AIR

Mike Page & Pauline Young

REPRINT

Mike Page's aerial photographs of East Anglia have delighted an eager public, and his previous books, A Broads-Eye View and Norfolk Coast from the Air have become bestsellers. His photographs are featured regularly in the Eastern Daily Press, further adding to the public appetite for his superb aerial views.

Mike's intimate knowledge of the region and his interest in flying and photography make him particularly well qualified to create this fine collection of aerial pictures of Suffolk's coastline. Geography has bequeathed Suffolk with a sense of splendid isolation, a distinction that has shaped its character and that of its people. The photographs in this book, of seaside towns, major and minor ports, fishing villages, woodlands and nature reserves, reveal this special landscape to its best advantage.

Readers will enjoy these outstanding bird's-eye views of Suffolk's fine coastline and Pauline Young's excellent accompanying text. And now, with the sea threatening erosion along much of the coast, these photographs hold an added fascination as we are able to witness, from high above, the dramatic effects of climate change.

Gorleston-born Mike Page began his working life as a boat builder but in 1973, in partnership with his wife Gillian, began a garage business at Strumpshaw, east of Norwich. He's now semi-retired and his son Martin runs the garage, which gives him more time to pursue his flying and photographic interests. He has a considerable library of aerial and wildlife prints which he makes readily available. In addition he supplies newspapers with newsworthy pictures and recently has produced aerial photographs for the Eastern Daily Press in a series of supplements that have been very well received. His first major project was a number of videos and DVDs of the East Anglian Coast. His first book A Broads-Eye View, also produced in partnership with Pauline Young, was a huge success, followed by their book Norfolk Coast from the Air.

Pauline Young has lived in East Anglia for many years. She writes regularly for magazines and is a published children's author. She first teamed up with Mike Page, whom she has known in a flying context for a long time, when he began providing aerial pictures for her articles about the Norfolk Broads.

Rough seas Southwold.

Butley River looking towards Havergate Island.

This sea monster is composed of sand and shingle in the mouth of the River Ore, but it creeps around to trap the unwary sailor.

Along all accessible parts of the Suffolk coast beach huts abound.
