

SUFFOLK COAST FROM THE AIR 2

Once again Mike Page has come up trumps with a superb selection of aerial photographs to please the many fans of his 'From the Air' series of books. Following on the success of his earlier Suffolk Coast from the Air comes a completely new set of images ranging along the coast from Felixstowe to Lowestoft.

In Suffolk Coast from the Air 2 there is particular coverage of recent works employed to mitigate the effects of erosion that threaten the coastline, causing greater damage from year to year. The importance of aerial photography in highlighting the perils faced as a result of the encroaching sea is vividly displayed in these fascinating images, with comparisons made between those areas which have sea defenses and those which do not. Many of the smaller towns and villages are included. Pauline Young's text adds further interest to each image, pointing out aspects that may not be immediately apparent, along with sites of particular importance.

There is little doubt that this second book of the Suffolk coast will generate as much interest as the first. As a memento for visitors to these shores, or as reminder to locals of what is best about their county, this new book will prove to be a real treasure.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Mike Page, Gorleston-born, began his working life as a boat builder but in 1973 in partnership with his wife Gillian began a garage business at Strumpshaw, east of Norwich. He's now semi-retired and his son Martin runs the garage, which gives him more time to pursue his flying and photographic interests. He has a considerable library of aerial and wildlife prints which he makes readily available. In addition he supplies newspapers with newsworthy pictures and recently has produced aerial photographs for the Eastern Daily Press in a series of supplements that have been very well received. His first major project was a number of videos and DVDs of the East Anglian Coast. His first book A Broads-Eye View also produced in partnership with Pauline Young, was a huge success, followed by their book Norfolk Coast from the Air.

Pauline Young has lived in East Anglia for many years. She writes regularly for magazines and is a published children's author. She first teamed up with Mike Page, whom she has known in a flying context for a long time, when he began providing aerial pictures for her articles about the Norfolk Broads.

Ipswich Docks

Within the dock complex there's a Container Terminal at CRI Quay and a Bulk facility. Bakery and fertiliser are two of the main exports while coal, timber, pigmeat and petrol are brought in. In the sixteenth century wool was exported in huge quantities.

The Orwell Bridge

Completed in 1912 the bridge provides part of the essential commercial route between London, The Midlands and the Container Terminal at Felixstowe. It serves also as a bypass round the southern side of Ipswich.
